Repairs for I-270 overpass

The Illinois Department of Transportation has awarded a contract for repairs to an overpass that carries Interstate 270 above Illinois Route 3.

The work will be done by Korte-Plocher Construction Co. Inc. of Highland and St. Louis.

The $54,000 contract primarily involves the replacement of a 70-foot-long steel I-beam that supports the overpass.

Concrete will be removed in two areas to make possible the removal of the I-beam. The concrete will be replaced after the new beam is set.

The overpass will be supported by temporary shoring during the replacement of the beam. There will be some lane reductions on the roadways during the work, but no stoppage of traffic is anticipated.

The work is scheduled to begin in June and will take about three weeks.

Camp seeking day counselors

Owners campaign for nude bar plan

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

Backers of a plan to bring topless and bottomless dancing to Madison concede that most Madison residents would never patronize such a club.

But they said Thursday they are confident the majority of Madison's residents see their proposal for a club offering nude dancing as a good thing for the city.

Deja Vu in Springfield has submitted a proposal to lease the Stages nightclub, located on Illinois 203 near Interstate 55/70. After performing a $1 million renovation of the building, the company would open a Deja Vu club offering live adult entertainment.

Mayor John Bellcoff, who opposes the plan, said at the May 26 City Council meeting that he would refuse to grant the proposed club a liquor license and that he would refuse to ratify any amendment of the city's 1989 obscenity ordinance that bans all forms of lewd entertainment.

The Madison City Council referred Deja Vu's proposal to its Legislative Committee, made up of Alderman George Amisch, chairman, and Aldermen Michael Vrabec and Ralph Miller. The committee met with Deja Vu representatives Thursday night and will meet again at 6 p.m. Tuesday to prepare a report to the City Council.

Larry Goldberg, a St. Louis attorney representing Deja Vu, told the committee Thursday that the location of Stages within the city limits, but outside the city proper, puts Madison in a unique, positive situation.

"Madison is in a good position because it can get all the economic benefits without having it in the community," Goldberg said.

"... I think the majority of the people in Madison feel this will be a real economic benefit to the city.

"I think the majority will see this as a way to bring real dollars to the city, even if they would never go in there themselves."

Goldberg said the proposed club would make a minimum net profit of $5 million a year and that, based on that, the city would collect between $100,000 and $150,000 in additional revenue.

Jack Scoville, owner of Stages, said, "Citizens, if they find this kind of thing morally reprehensible, won't even know (See BAR, Page 12A)"

Pastor locked out after vote

By Mike Chambers
Staff writer

Unable to persuade his congregation to secede from the Assemblies of God, the Rev. Eddy Brown said Thursday afternoon he plans to form his own church in the Granite City area.

He also plans to appeal the denomination's Illinois District Council's efforts to decertify him as a minister.

After three years as its pastor, Brown, 45, has been locked out of his church, the Tri-City Park Tabernacle, 3400 Maryville Road.

A vote Tuesday night against seceding is said to have had the effect of ousting Brown. The action followed months of tension between him, parishioners and employees of the church.

"The church has been split. We counseled him to be conciliatory, as a shepherd, to be pastoral — and to bring the flock together," said the Rev. Dale Edwards, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois District Assemblies of God. "We have been very patient, and slow to do anything."

In February, Brown won a vote of confidence among church members, 146 to 65, after a vote was sought by a petition from dissatisfied members.

On Tuesday night, members siding with Brown attempted to gain the two-thirds majority vote needed to secede from the Assemblies of God and gain ownership of the building.

The attempt would have required 153 votes, two-thirds of those listed as eligible to vote; it failed by four votes, 149 to 80.

However, church members contend that at least 35 members (See PASTOR, Page 12A)

City ward redistricting delayed again

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

A proposal to redraw Granite City political boundaries was put on hold again Tuesday night, but not before the remap recommended by the City Council's Legislative Committee was changed by an amendment.

Seventh Ward Alderman Sandy Crites proposed the amendment, which would keep precinct 24, in northeast Granite City, in her ward and precinct 35, near Wilson Park, in the 4th Ward. Under the proposal recommended by the committee, 24 would be in the new 4th Ward and 35 would be in the 7th. The amendment passed 10-3, with Aldermen Dan Brown, Dan Partney and Ginny O'Bear, all Legislative Committee members, voting against the amendment.

Action on the new map was deferred until the council's June 16 meeting.

Crites initially proposed that the entire redistricting issue be referred back to the committee, which had studied the matter for six months before making its recommendation.

Crites Brown

She said her alternative proposal, which she presented to the council Tuesday, better meets statutory criteria for redistricting — compact wards with contiguous boundaries and population as close to equal as possible.

She said the population figures upon which the committee made its recommendation are inaccurate because they do not include the Gorbie subdivision in the 7th Ward. Gorbie was annexed into the city several years ago but remains in Nameki Township (precinct 6) rather than Granite City Township.

Hospitals fighting tax proposal

All Illinois hospitals would be taxed to raise money to plug a $735 million state budget gap in providing health care for the poor under a plan by Gov. Jim Edgar.

The proposal immediately drew opposition from the Illinois Hospital Association, which said Edgar should instead seek a state income tax hike to help treat poor patients.

The presidents of four area hospitals — St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City, Memorial and St. Elizabeth's in Belleville and Anderson in Maryville — all are critical of the plan.

SEMC President Ted Eilerman said the proposal to place a tax on otherwise tax-exempt businesses "is not our preferred method of financing health care in Illinois."

According to figures released by the governor, about 20 percent of all hospitals, nursing homes and other health institutions would lose revenue under the proposal; the rest would benefit.

The higher the Medicaid load, the better off a hospital generally would be under Edgar's plan.

Anderson would lose $104,000 in fiscal 1993. Memorial would gain $2,073,501 and St. Elizabeth's would gain $2,016,489, according to the governor's figures.

SEMC also stands to gain more than $2 million, according to the governor's estimate.

But Gerald Harmon, president of St. Elizabeth's in Belleville, called the figures "totally inaccurate." (See HOSPITALS, Page 12A)

No dull moments

Nothing is typical about Ed Schroeder's classroom

By Mike Chambers
Staff writer

When a film crew was sent by the Walt Disney Corp. to catch Coolidge Junior High teacher Ed Schroeder on a typical day, the Disney people were asking a lot.

A typical day for Schroeder is anything but typical.

His 10 a.m. English class on Monday was given a lesson in recycling and environmental conservation. And here's how they learned it:

Instead of books, the students brought to the class bags of trash which they had been collecting all month. Then they were taken to a smoke-filled room: Schroeder brought his own smoke machine to class for this one.

There, more trash had been strewn across the room. Taped on the walls were reminders of the planet's health: "In the past 20 years as many as 1 million species have vanished from the world's tropical forests," one of the world's signs read.

"The United States is 5 percent of the world's population. It uses 25 percent of the world's energy. It emits 22 percent of all CO2 produced," another sign read.

Following a lecture by Schroeder and "teacher for a day" Laura Steele on the importance of recycling (which included a rap song Schroeder wrote for the class), students took the trash they had been collecting and separated it into several recycling cans labeled metal, aluminum, plastic and paper. Not what would be called a typical day in school.

"You need to do something interesting every once in a while," Schroeder said between filming takes. "A lot of people."

911 may begin in two weeks

Madison County's 911 emergency telephone service may start in about two weeks.

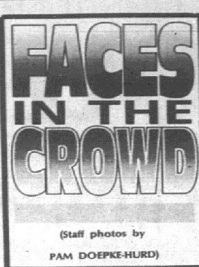

Telephone company and emergency services personnel are now making final checks on the system, said 911 Coordinator David Whipple.

He said most problems have been resolved and final approval of the system by the Illinois Commerce Commission is expected within days.

The service originally was projected to begin late last year, but has been delayed by various problems, including the task of assigning street names to about 10,000 rural addresses.

Despite those problems, Illinois Bell Telephone Co. officials said development of the Madison County system has gone more smoothly than most, Whipple said.

Madison County telephone customers have been paying a 65-cents-per-line surcharge on telephone bills to fund the 911 system since September 1989.

3 charged in drug raid; Echols gets apology

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Three Venice residents were cited for drug charges in warrants issued Friday by Madison County State's Attorney Bill Haine.

The charges, sought by Venice police, stem from Wednesday's raid by Venice police and Illinois State Police on a house on Third Street. Large quantities of drugs and between $4,000 and $5,000 cash were seized in the raid, police said.

Stephen J. Boyd, 22, and Donald Jones, 25, both of the 1000 block of Third Street, were each charged with unlawful possession of more than 15 grams but less than 100 grams of cocaine with intent to deliver, and unlawful possession with intent to deliver more than 30 grams but less than 500 grams of cannabis.

Boyd and Jones were both in custody Friday. Bond was set at $100,000 for each man.

Tamara Holmes, 19, also of the 1000 block of Third Street, was charged with unlawful possession of a controlled substance. She was being held Friday in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Venice Police Chief James Bennett said the department will likely seek the confiscated cash and a 1984 Puget automobile under federal forfeiture laws.

Five officers from the Venice Police Department and 12 from the Illinois State Police tactical team executed the search warrant at about 5:15 p.m.

Two teams executed the bust, police said — one for the front door and one for the rear.

But, according to a police report, Venice officers drove down the wrong alley. They began to back their vehicle, but noticed that agents in an ISP vehicle that had been following them had already exited.

Agents kicked in a door at Mayor Tyrone Echols' home, nearby on Abbott Street.

Neither Echols nor his son, who also lives at the Abbott Street address, were home at the time.

Venice police then informed the back-door team of their mistake, according to the police report.

Bennett said the incident at the Echols' home was "definitely" an honest mistake.

"It was an honest mistake," another Venice officer said. He said the back-door team knew only that the house was blue in color. The Echols' home is also blue.

"We're sorry it happened, and hope the mayor will accept our apology," the officer said.

City officials to testify before Congress on cleanup

By Mike Chambers
Staff writer

Mayor Von Dee Cruse and two other Granite City officials plan to travel to Washington, D.C., Monday to testify before a House subcommittee studying a U.S. Environmental Protection Agency plan to clean up lead deposits left in the city.

The EPA plans to spend $30 million from the federal pollution control Superfund to eliminate lead linked to the Taracorp plant. The work would involve shaving the top six inches of soil in a 55-block area.

"They have not given any thought to what impact this will have on our city," Cruse said. "I think it would destroy Granite City."

Traveling with Cruse will be 2nd Ward Alderman Craig Tarporff and Assistant City Attorney Sue Bacon.

The three will testify Tuesday before the Subcommittee on Investigations and Oversight of the House Public Works and Transportation Committee.

Cruse and other local officials have disputed EPA plans to remove lead-contaminated soil and other material from yards and alleys in a large area of Granite City, Madison, Venice and Eagle Park.

The EPA plans to add the soil and other materials to the Taracorp waste pile at 15th and State streets in Granite City and seal the pile.

City officials plan to include a paper prepared by Public Works Director Brett Hanke and Alderman Tarporff with their testimony.

The paper was presented at the 25th annual Conference on Trace Substance in Environmental Health, in Columbia, Mo. It described the EPA cleanup plan as a "Frankenstein's monster built of bits and pieces of scientific models and data."

The cleanup proposal has been contested in federal court by both Granite City officials and officials of NL Industries and other industries. The EPA claims are responsible for the contamination.

The congressional hearing was arranged by U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, D-Belleville, a member of the Transportation Committee.

Costello has criticized the EPA's alleged failure to answer the concerns of local community leaders and its alleged failure to explain its decision-making process.

"Despite the efforts of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to explain the need for this clean-up to the residents of Granite City, there remain questions from the community about the risk posed by this lead pile," Costello said.

"It is my hope that this hearing will clarify how the EPA makes its decisions on the use of its Superfund program."

Lions giving many gift of sight

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

Ed Werner says only the dead can give the gift of sight to the living.

In the past five years, he and the Pontoon Beach Lions Club have helped organ donors give sight to some 300 people.

Werner, owner and operator of Werner Chapel for Funerals in Pontoon Beach, and his wife, Barbara, are both certified to remove the eyes from organ donors. As soon as the Werners find out a donor is available, they call Walter Conklin, secretary of the Pontoon Beach Lions.

"Walter then sends out a team of two people to transport the eyes," said Randy Werner, president of the Pontoon Beach Lions. "Time is everything, because they are only useful for a short time."

"We have a bet with Ed that if we beat him to the hospital, he will buy us dinner. So far, he's never had to pay off."

The Lions team takes the eyes to Bethesda Hospital in St. Louis. There, the corneas are transplanted into patients who have lost their sight. This year the Pontoon Beach Lions have transported 15 sets of eyes and they have averaged 30 sets a year.

"The way it works is that, if there are two eyes, they go to two patients," Ed Werner said. "That way, more people benefit."

Today marks the 75th anniversary of Lions Clubs International.

Seventy-five years ago today, Chicago insurance agent Melvin Jones convened a group of business club leaders at the LaSalle Hotel in Chicago. Jones believed that business clubs should expand their horizons from purely financial concerns to the betterment of the community. And the International Association of Lions, which emerged from that meeting, has certainly done that.

The Lions' initial projects were mostly in support of the war effort in World War I. But the organization's focus shifted when Helen Keller, addressing the Lions' 1925 convention, challenged them to take up the cause of the visually handicapped. The Lions are recognized as leaders in the fight against blindness through worldwide vision screening programs, medical research facilities, eye banks, guide dog training schools, braille programs, rehabilitation institutes and eyeglass recycling centers.

They also have joined the fight against hearing problems and, more recently, diabetes.

The Pontoon Beach Lions have 31 members, 22 of them active. Four of its members have been awarded the Melvin Jones Fellowship, the highest honor given by Lions International.

The Pontoon Beach Club will mark its 30th anniversary in September 1993. Randy Werner estimated that this year the club will give between $25,000 and $30,000 in donations.

In addition to the eye donation program, Randy Werner said, the club collects used eyeglasses and hearing aids.

"The eyeglasses go overseas to underprivileged countries for the most part," he said. "But used hearing aids are a real premium — they're really expensive — so hearing aids are used right here."

Exhibit building to be taught here

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

People who build large exhibits for aquariums, zoos and museums are by no means a dime-a-dozen.

"It's not a skill you can go to school to learn," said Leonard Sonnenschein, president of the proposed Mid-America Aquacenter in Pontoon Beach. "At least, not until now."

At 8 a.m. Monday, Belleville Area College and the Aquacenter will begin registration for the WET — Wonderworks Education and Training program.

It is hoped that the eight-week, five-days-a-week, eight-hours-a-day program, which costs $65, will enroll at least 70 people.

"But there is no limit," Sonnenschein said. "The registration and classes will be in the (Granite City Campus of BAC) gym and nothing would please me more than filling the gym completely."

Sonnenschein said the students in the program will actually be building exhibits for the Aquacenter and, "hopefully, a lot of them will become trained employees of the Aquacenter."

"But, even if someone doesn't come to work for us, this is a great opportunity."

"Exhibit design and fabrication is one of the most dynamic fields today, with entry-level positions paying $14,000 a year and senior positions paying over $30,000. And one of the great things about the field is, because it is so small and so much in demand, seniority is given very early."

He said graduates of the program can expect to "readily get employment" at zoos, aquariums, museums, shopping centers, amusement parks and many other related fields.

"This is a really unique opportunity for men and women, whether they want a marketable part-time skill or a whole new career," Sonnenschein said.

The WET program will combine classroom study and hands-on applications, he said.

The course will begin with mold building, exhibit design and material identification and acquisition.

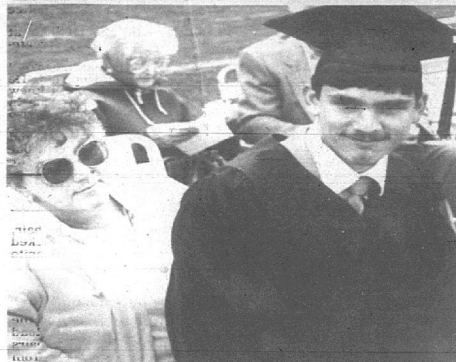

Other topics include model building, structure analysis, computer-aided design and scale model fabrication, exhibit fabrication, including molds, murals and signs; and ceiling and wall treatment.

"I had to repeat myself, but it really is a unique opportunity," Sonnenschein said. "We're really excited and think if people will come out they'll be excited, too."

Student gets wish: becomes 'teacher for a day'

By Mike Chambers
Staff writer

When you wish upon a star, sometimes dreams really do come true.

That's what 14-year-old Laura Steele might tell you after her experience Monday.

Steele's wish, to be a teacher, came true right in Granite City at Coolidge Junior High School.

And what a mentor she was given. Ed Schroeder, the nation's 1991 Outstanding Teacher.

"He taught me a lot," Steele said of Schroeder. "He's not a boring teacher."

She was selected from a pool of 20 students nationwide to appear on a segment of Walt Disney's Mickey Mouse Club. The segment, "What I Want To Be," regularly allows a young person to perform his or her chosen future profession for a day.

Disney sent a crew to Granite City to film the eighth grader as she taught two of Schroeder's English classes.

It's no easy task teaching eighth grade students. When the teacher is the same age as the students, the task is even more difficult, but Steele said she had a good tutor in Schroeder.

"I've learned a lot (from him). I learned not to be so shy when I'm in front of a class," she said before her second class.

"I know what I have to do."

If good students make good teachers, then Steele should be in for a bright future. A native of Waterford, Mich., a suburb outside of Detroit, Steele is constantly on the honor roll at her junior high school in Waterford.

She is also active in junior varsity cheerleading and volleyball.

think I do this every day (but) I don't."

Schroeder's class will appear on a segment of Walt Disney's television Mickey Mouse Club called "What I want to be," spotlighting a student's dream job.

Laura Steele, 14, spending a day teaching with Schroeder's guidance, was the focus of the film piece, to be aired in October. But every day in Schroeder's class, the real focus is on the students.

"I try to convince teachers that they have to put fun into the classroom. If the classroom is boring, the kids won't learn as much," Schroeder said.

The 51-year-old educator has been putting fun into the classroom for 29 years. He's taught at Coolidge for 27 years.

And putting fun into learning has paid dividends for Schroeder and his school.

Schroeder was picked by Walt Disney Corp. as the 1991 Outstanding Teacher at the first American Teacher Awards, an Oscar-like ceremony complete with film clips of the teachers in action and celebrity hosts like Melanie Griffith and Tony Danza. Schroeder's award was presented by Disney President Michael Eisner.

Thirty-six teachers were chosen in 12 separate disciplines by educational groups to go to Hollywood and be present at the ceremony. One teacher was selected in each discipline as most outstanding, with one the 12 winners then being chosen as the teacher of the year.

For that award, $50,000 was split between Schroeder and Coolidge Junior High School. Coolidge has established a committee, including Schroeder, to guide spending of its $25,000.

Schroeder said the school has invested the money and 90 percent of the interest will be spent for such things as video equipment, a new sound system in the auditorium, and student incentive programs. The principal won't be touched.

"There will always be a little nest egg for Coolidge," he said. Since winning the award, Schroeder has expanded his role as an education guru, lecturing across the country and making appearances on such TV programs as "The Tonight Show" starring Jay Leno and "Regis (Philbin) and Kathy Lee (Gifford) Show."

He describes the fast-paced new lifestyle, made possible by Disney (complete with a substitute teacher paid for by that corporation) as "hectic but enjoyable."

He doesn't know how long it will last, but as long as it does, he plans to make the most of it. "I get to spread the word of what is good and great about teaching," Schroeder said.

The award has changed his life, Schroeder said, and has provided him with a unique opportunity.

"It allows me to demonstrate some of my techniques and philosophies which I think could be beneficial," he said.

"He's a positive influence on the faculty members. If they have not adapted his methods of teaching, they have adapted his style," Coolidge Principal Jim Jeffries said of Schroeder's impact right here at home.

Schroeder is something of a self-confessed "ham," and uses this to his advantage. Often he assumes the role of the character in the books he teaches to his students, and the class asks his character questions to solve a mystery or to learn more about the story. Above all, Schroeder is able to stay in touch with his students.

That's evident when walking into his classroom, where one can see pictures of the Beatles, Three Stooges (which warns the students not to be the fourth) and Rolling Stone Magazine covers taped to the wall.

Schroeder's classroom also features four clocks on the wall telling students Granite City time, New York time, Los Angeles time and favorite time (3:10 p.m., when school is out).

Schroeder's philosophy on learning seems grounded in communication.

From slapstick sight gags (including a rubber chicken and a rubber fish) to theatrical renditions at the drop of a hat, Ed Schroeder will seemingly do anything to reach the kids.

"Communication is where it starts," he said.

Last week, he used a smoke machine, a room full of trash and a rap song to communicate with his students. Wonder what he'll do this week?

Delay urged in State Police cuts

A divided Senate committee is requesting a six-month delay in closing any State Police offices.

A resolution passed last week asks Director Terrance Gainer to postpone his proposal to lock up 40 trooper offices and create 15 headquarters until legislators debate the issue in the next session.

It says that we don't want a bunch of closings in January of 1993," resolution sponsor Harry "Babe" Woodyard, R-Champaign, said.

Gainer's plan would merge Litchfield's District 18 headquarters with Collinsville's District 11. District 18 covers Jersey, Macoupin, Greene, Calhoun and Montgomery counties.

Gainer said he is still revving the plan and won't close any office until April. He said it is possible that the Litchfield office would stay open as a less-sustainable sub post.

The director has agreed to re-evaluate his original plan after receiving biting criticism at town meetings. The governor's office was flooded with several thousand letters, calls and petition signatures against the cost-cutting measure.

Most recently, Gainer has directed troopers in affected offices to report to him by July on the impacts of any closings.

In Wednesday's Senate Executive Committee meeting, Senate President Philip Rock and committee Chairman William Marovitz opposed the resolution, saying that not all of Gainer's plan should be shelved.

"I don't think we can thumb our nose at the director because he is trying to bring costs under control," Marovitz said.

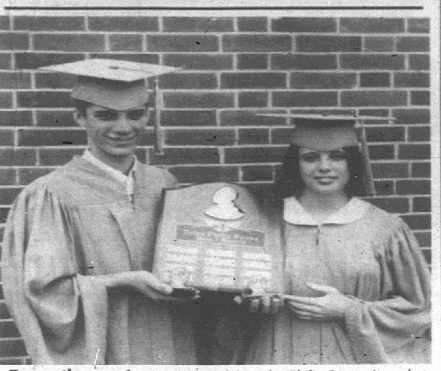

Sen. Jack Schaffer, R-Crystal Lake, also opposed the measure. "My guess is that some of those offices could be eliminated with no result to crime in Illinois," he said.

Woodyard said Gainer's proposal has "a tremendous lack of planning" and "it did panic quite a few people."

The resolution, which passed 95-0, was sent to the full Senate. It doesn't have the force of law.

'Electronic picket' lines in use by CWA workers

By Martin Richter
Staff writer

A local AT&T employee said Friday that union members have initiated an "electronic picket line" against the company, and that a general strike is not out of the question.

Mike Chapman of Collinsville, in Executive Board member for Communications Workers of America Local 4600, said Friday that CWA members across the country are filling out cards to change from AT&T to other long distance carriers until contract negotiations are completed.

Chapman said union members estimate that this is costing AT&T $3 million to $3.5 million a week.

He said other union members from the Teamsters have pledged to join the electronic picket line and that asking the general public to join in the move "is a possibility."

The main issues of contention are salaries and job security, Chapman said. AT&T has announced that it will eliminate 3,000 to 4,000 jobs nationwide by 1994, including 119 jobs at its switching station here.

Chapman said the negotiations hold little hope for saving the Collinsville jobs. But he added that the union is pushing for special compensation for those workers who lose their jobs to robot technology.

"We're working without a contract right now, and everyone's going day by day," he said. "I don't know if there will be a strike, but if there is, we will support it."

He said morale is poor at the Collinsville office.

If you have two cars, using the more efficient one will save two million gallons of gas a day!

Foster parents to receive pay

Foster parents have received a last-minute financial reprieve.

The delay would have hurt already strapped foster parents like Becky and Dale Stewart of Brighton.

The Stewarts receive about $250 a month from the state for each of three foster children.

The legislation providing additional spending authority for the remainder of this fiscal year ending June 30 also includes about $82 million for other agencies.

Included is about $11 million more for in-home care for the elderly through the Department on Aging.

Most of the rest represents increased spending for grants and health care for the poor through the Department of Public Aid.

Also included, however, is $525,000 for the legal fees of Springfield attorney Mary Lee Leahy who has represented a group of state employees who successfully challenged former Gov. James Thompson's practice of hiring and promoting Republicans for state jobs.

The state road fund is being raided for $250,000 to pay Leahy in the patronage case, with another $275,000 coming from the general revenue fund.

Sen. John Cullerton, D-Chicago, asked Wednesday whether more than $120 million in additional spending would come from, when the state already has a backlog of about $800 million in bills.

State wants its tax on mail orders

Even though the U.S. Supreme Court said states can't force mail-order retailers to collect Illinois sales taxes, Illinois wants you to pay up anyway.

State Revenue Director Doug Whitley said state law still requires Illinoisans who purchase goods from out of state to pay the 6.25 percent sales tax directly.

Whitley said he was concerned that news accounts of last week's U.S. Supreme Court decision would mislead consumers into thinking they had no tax liability. The justices said individual states can't require retailers to collect their sales taxes.

Even though the state can't force retailers to collect the taxes, consumers still have a legal responsibility to pay them, Whitley said. The department is trying to educate consumers about the matter.

Other states and large companies share information with Illinois, and individual consumers could wind up paying a penalty and interest, Whitley said.

He said the department is trying to make it easier to pay the taxes by allowing the levy on smaller purchases to be made annually.

Whitley conceded, however, that unless purchases are fairly large, the department would rarely go after individual consumers because it would not be cost effective.

Whitley said the department hoped Congress would take the opportunity to pass a law that could require mail-order retailers to collect state and local tax.

The state does collect about $325 million a year, primarily from larger out-of-state firms that do business in Illinois.

Some mail-order companies that operate mail outlets in Illinois can be required to collect the sales taxes, Whitley noted.

$3 million judgment against firm

A Granite City law firm has obtained a $3 million judgment for a Carlinville man in a legal malpractice lawsuit.

A Madison County jury awarded Curtis Bloomer $3,238,800 Tuesday in his suit, filed last year by Morris B. Chapman of Granite City against the Alton law firm of Wiseman, Shaikewitz, McGivern, Wahl, Flavin and Hesi.

The jury concluded that the Alton firm and its principal attorneys failed to adequately represent Bloomer in a previous medical malpractice lawsuit against St. John's Hospital in Springfield, Ill., and physicians, and that adequate representation would have resulted in a judgment in Bloomer's favor.

Bloomer's initial suit was dismissed with prejudice due to inadequate representation by the Alton firm, the jury determined.

State urged to restart Assumption prison plan

By Christopher Knight
Correspondent

Illinois should jump-start plans to turn an East St. Louis high school into a prison to relieve overcrowding at other facilities, a task force said Wednesday.

Gov. Jim Edgar's study group recommended that the state restart temporarily shelved plans to turn Assumption High School into a 560-bed minimum-security prison.

The study says the project would give Illinois prisons low-cost breathing room and make good on a state promise to East St. Louis.

"The project has more far-reaching benefits as well," the report said. "It would put to use the substantial investment the state has already made in the facility and it would fulfill a commitment made to the people of Illinois."

"The project's economic development impact, in one of the state's most economically depressed and crime-ridden communities, would be substantial."

The state bought Assumption several years ago, after the school closed, with the intention of spending $18 million to turn it into a prison. The school is at the intersection of Ill. 111 and St. Clair Avenue.

Lawmakers and the governor approved $4 million in 1990 to buy the site, make improvements, design the prison, and remove asbestos and underground storage tanks. Budget problems forced officials to put remodeling on hold.

Illinois' 34 prisons, work-release centers and and work camps hold nearly 30,000 inmates, almost 50 percent more than capacity.

In addition to appointing the task force in February, Edgar has proposed spending $21.2 million to open an already-finished 952-bed Big Muddy prison near Rend Lake in Southern Illinois, a 200-bed work-release center in Chicago and four downstate work camps with a total of 750 beds.

The task force asked the Legislature to appropriate money for Assumption this session. The group expects to make more overcrowding proposals before the end of the year.

HEEL PAIN?

If you are suffering from pain located at the bottom of the heel, you may have plantar fasciitis. Plantar fasciitis refers to inflammation of a ligament that attaches to the heel bone and fans out into the toes. The inflammation may be due to a variety of etiologies, almost all of which can be resolved through conservative treatments.

If you have been putting up with this discomfort, feel free to call the specialists of the Foot Health Centers.

Chief urges bicyclists to wear helmet

Look out, public. Here they come. On two-wheelers, tricycles and even unicycles.

The bicycle season is upon us in force. Look at any grade school parking lot at the line after line of multicolored bicycles and one can plainly see what is children's favorite mode of transportation.

At this time of year, Chief of Police Don Knight is trying to make the Granite City community more aware that kids from every age group are now on the streets with their favorite pastime, bicycling.

"While learning good, safe riding habits is absolutely essential, there is one other area of concern I would like to emphasize," says Knight.

"Statistics show that every year more than 70,000 serious head injuries occur to bicyclists, many of them children.

"The same report stated that three out of four of those injuries could have been avoided by simply wearing a helmet. Unfortunately, many do not fully recover from such injuries.

"It seems that helmets fall into the 'sissy' category for most kids and even adults. Yet, what a price to pay for such an excuse," he adds.

"Today's helmets are high-tech. They're light, they're comfortable and, what's really important, they're tough.

There are two organizations which test helmets and we suggest people buy only a helmet bearing their stickers inside. They are the Snell Memorial Foundation and the American National Standards Institute. These helmets only weigh seven and 14 ounces and are adjustable to every size."

Knight also mentions a few safety tips:

- Keep your eyes on the road ahead.
- Steer with both hands.
- Have reflective material on the bike.

• Wear clothing that won't get caught in the chain.

• Be polite; be patient. Set a good example.

• Watch out for the other guy.

• Obey the traffic rules.

• Wear that helmet.

The Granite City Police Department and Chief Knight are speaking out on behalf of the safety and well-being of all those who ride bicycles this summer. Anyone having questions concerning bicycle safety may call Officer Mike Sparks, the crime prevention officer, at 451-9760.

Favorable job market is predicted

A pleasant employment climate is forecast this summer for the St. Louis area, according to hiring intentions just released for the third quarter by Manpower Inc., the world's largest temporary help firm.

"The employment outlook survey finding for July, August and September shows that 28 percent of the local businesses interviewed intend to add more staff, 5 percent plan labor reductions and another 67 percent foresee no changes," said St. Louis area spokesman Ron Ramler.

Ramler said that in general employers are usually quite upbeat during the summer months.

"Current results are stronger than those of a quarter ago, when 25 percent anticipated adding personnel while 10 percent predicted staff cuts. Last year at this time, 13 percent planned increases and 12 percent expected to trim employment rolls."

For the next three months, job opportunities are most likely in construction, manufacturing, finance/insurance/real estate, services and public administration.

Nationwide, employers express an optimism not seen in the past two years.

Of more than 15,000 companies interviewed, 25 percent expected to increase employment rolls. Only 8 percent anticipated staff cutbacks and 64 percent said they would remain at present levels. An additional 3 percent were not yet certain.

The improvement over recent quarters substantially exceeds the normal seasonal increases and the favorable outlook extends to all geographic regions.

The convention theme, "Illinois PTA: Opening Doors to Our Children's Future," reflects the PTA focus this year of raising awareness and planning for tomorrow.

Delegates who attended were: Granite City Area Council PTA President Kristen Hamilton, Frank Hamilton, delegate; Lake School PTA President Nancy Connolly and President-elect Cindy Elliott; Mitchell School PTA President Patty Smith, and Nancy Rivenburgh, secretary; Parkview School PTA President Tammy Thomas and Harlon Keel, vice president; and Mendy Weston, secretary; and Prather School PTA President Mike Woods.

Special guest speakers were:

Keynote address: James J. Stukel, chancellor, University of Illinois at Chicago; Father John Smyth, director of Maryville Academy, Des Plaines, Ill.; and Dave Coffman, principal in Raytown, Mo. and 1991 National PTA Outstanding Educator Award winner; and Edward M. Schroeder of Granite City.

Schroeder, the American Teacher of the Year, was the guest speaker at the Scholarship Dinner held Thursday, April 30.

There was a "Hot Issues Panel" on Friday, May 1, which covered the following four critical education issues with special speakers and audience participation: Strikes, Censorship, Choice/Vouchers/Privatization, Commercialization.

Resolutions considered by delegates dealt with: Illinois Lottery profits, teen-age drunk drivers, education of homeless children, income tax financing of Illinois schools and paid time off for parent involvement.

The discussion and decision making process on the floor of the convention always brings forth vigorous debate.

Support or oppose positions were taken on a wide variety of bills which concern children, youth, schools, and education in general, and are currently pending on the floor of the Illinois legislature.

The delegates also attended 30 workshops designed to share information and inspire local unit PTA leaders throughout Illinois.

Helping you make the right decisions in a complex world.

CHOICES

Col. 3:1 "If you are risen with Christ, seek those things above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God."

Let me remind you once again that the word if, always signifies a possibility of doubt. If you are risen with Christ certainly requires of us a personal examination. Where are you today? Can you be positive by looking inward that Christ is the Lord of your life?

When we are risen with Christ then we have to walk in newness of life. Our attitudes about life will certainly change; it will be a joy to face every day, regardless of our circumstances. And why not since Christ is with us never to leave nor forsake us?

Please understand that the things that are heavenly, that pertain to this Kingdom, must be sought for. For we are to seek those things above. So our experience in Christ seems to be lagging then we should start seeking. When we seek with our whole heart we will find him. Guaranteed.

Please take notice that you can hear our radio ministry "Choices" daily 1:45-2:00 p.m. Mon. thru Friday on Prairie Radio 1010 on your AM dial. Also on Sunday mornings at 7:30 a.m. on W.C.B.W. 104.9 FM. Thanks for listening. In the meantime you have a real good Spirit filled day. Amen.

The Friendly Agers of the Second Baptist Church held its regular monthly meeting May 26 beginning at 10 a.m. Bob Lewis welcomed the members and visitors. Rev. Don Whitehead, minister of music, led the group in singing the theme song, "Today I Will Be Happy," and "Happy Birthday," to those having birthdays.

Carolyn Whitehead led in prayer for the sick, bereaved and special requests. A business session was held and the Secretary's report was given. Names of deceased members were read in honor of Memorial Day and the "Hallelujah Choir," sang "Mine Eyes Have Seen the Glory." Several members read poems and gave readings. Balaska Daugherty had charge of some new fun games. Rev. David Tyler, pastor of the church, gave the devotional and asked the blessing. A delicious pot luck lunch with fried chicken was enjoyed by Jennie Peters, Francis and Winnie Bringer, Ray and Hassie Jones, Louise Acocis, Goldie Smith, Pearl Peters, Ruby Mayberry, Dorothy Barnes, Mattie Hahn, Mildred Garin, Irene Broadway, Vera Kirkpatrick, Virgie Spalding, Carlisle Hoffman, Evelyn Dailey, Bob and Betty Lewis, Viola Atkins and the others mentioned.

The Lydia Circle of the Nameoki Methodist Church held the May meeting in the home of Millie Clements, and enjoyed a pot luck picnic on the patio. Mary Bailey opened the meeting and the Secretary and Treasurer's reports were read and approved. For the devotion, Tharah Erney read, "How to Make Jesus Your Best Friend," by Norman Vincent Peale. The Least Coin Lesson, "A Voice from the United States, The Importuning Widow—Don't Lose Heart," Luke 18: 27, was read by Pat Baumberger. Attending the meeting were Dorothy Asford, Mary Bailey, Pat Baumberger, Millie Clements, Tharah Erney, Ruby Gunderson, Ann Haley, Louise Hotson, Marie Isenberg, Marie Long, Bess Rucker and Dorothy Wallace.

David Staggs has returned to his home in Tulsa, Okla., after spending the weekend visiting his uncle, Mr. and Mrs. George (Glenna) Staggs, and family and other relatives.

A hot meal program planning meeting was held May 11 with 22 people present. Mrs. Watson, daughter of Gordon and Dorothy Bard of Elgin, Ill., graduated from Granite City High School in 1986.

She was a graduate of the University of Arizona and was employed by the Imperial College of Science and Technology of London.

Other survivors include her husband, Thomas Watson of Tucson; two sons, Thomas and Michael; and her grandparents, John and Mary Watson of Elgin, Ill.

Pastor

were inactivated, often by improper procedures, and another 15 persons were rejected as members in May.

"Even though he had a stacked deck, he still lost the election," Dale Dickey, a former member, said.

Dickey said he was suspended from voting membership in January and was denied the normal appeal process.

Brown was locked out of the church on the basis of the secession vote's result, but Edwards said Brown has "free access" to the building and Brown's former office.

Brown said the controversy with church members stems from his separate dismissals of an associate pastor and a church employee.

Brown said he fired assistant pastor Don Stratton in March 1992 because the assistant pastor didn't "accept the fact that I (Brown) have the authority to make decisions," Edwards said.

Stratton could not be reached for comment.

In June 1991, Brown dismissed church secretary Edna DeLoach, who was seriously injured in an automobile accident.

"She was overwhelmed by family problems, in my opinion as pastor and executive of the church," Brown said. "I feel it was a disruption for her to return to work."

Edwards said Brown's dismissal had nothing to do with Brown's handling of personnel matters.

"He threatened people (church members) with (slander) lawsuits," Edwards said. "We asked him not to threaten people with lawsuits in February (1992)."

We ignored various allegations," Edwards said. "Church members came with a petition, we couldn't ignore that," Edwards said.

Brown was fired by the District Council, in Carlinville, for "arbitrary rejection of District Council members" and "contentious, uncooperative spirit," according to a May 22 letter sent by Edwards to Brown.

Edwards said Brown has 30 days to appeal the District Council's dismissal with the General Council in Springfield, Mo.

Brown's dismissal will give a farewell service Sunday, June 7, but in light of the week's events, that has been canceled, Edwards said.

BAC offers pilot training

Bellevue Area College's Aviation Pilot Training Program is offering ground school and flight training at St. Louis Memorial East Airport (formerly Shafter Metro East Airport), 2701 Triad Road, St. Jacob.

BAC's program is Federal Aviation Administration and Veteran's Administration approved.

Students must enter in the program at St. Jacob to obtain a private pilot's license or they may pursue an associate's degree in applied science with flight training. Students may earn a commercial pilot's certificate with multi-engine and instrument ratings. Advanced training, such as certified flight instructor and airline transport pilot, also is available. BAC is one of the few schools in the United States that offers an Air Transport Pilot Program.

The cost of obtaining a private pilot's license is approximately $3,000; the cost of an associate's degree in applied science in pilot training is approximately $22,000. The costs vary according to the previous flight experience of the student.

Bill Schaubert, assistant chief flight instructor, will coordinate the St. Jacob program. Schaubert has a bachelor's degree in management information systems from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, and completed the pilot training program at BAC in 1989. He has logged more than 2,000 hours of flight time in a variety of aircraft, from single engine planes to Lear jets.

BAC's program has trained pilots since 1968. Graduates now fly for major national and commuter airlines as well as some of the largest corporations in the country. Flight training costs at BAC are among the least expensive in the nation, according to Ernest Lockwood, chief flight instructor and coordinator of BAC's program.

Newly trained pilots can expect to earn about $1,200 per month with regional airlines, according to Future Aviation Professionals of America (FAPA). Top salaries for pilots range from $60,000 to $70,000 per year at regional carriers and $130,000 per year at the major airlines.

Job prospects for 1992, according to FAPA projections, are excellent. There will be approximately 6,000 entry-level pilots hired. In the next 10 years, there will be $2,600 to $2,800 new pilots hired.

For more information and registration, call Bill Schaubert at 644-5411, or 1 (800) BAC-5131, or 235-2700, extension 352.

location will also be subject to 15-minute complete closures while the trusses are being lowered and lifted with a crane.

Tuesday, June 9 — I-64 eastbound at Illinois 111 in Washington.

Wednesday, June 10 — I-64 eastbound west of the I-255 interchange.

Thursday, June 11 — I-64 eastbound at the I-255 interchange.

cy for mayor in the April 1993 election, called Crites' proposal "just an attempt to undermine the plan at the last minute."

He said the committee had looked at a plan identical to Crites' proposal during its study of the issue, but determined that the plan recommended by the committee better met statutory criteria.

He said Crites' population figures for Gorbie are only an estimate.

"Just to take some guesses and estimates and try to make them fact" would not hold up in court should the new map be challenged, Brown said.

He said the amendment was motivated by politics rather than an interest in fair political divisions.

Former 7th Ward Alderman Emerald Dawes has threatened to sue the city should it fail to redraw the ward boundaries.

Dawes said Friday he has no problem with the map as amended, but suspects that each alderman will not come on board with the proposal and "we'll end up right back where we are now."

Dawes, a resident of precinct 22, said he had planned to run for 7th Ward alderman again in 1993, but he is placed in the 4th Ward under both the committee's proposal and the amended map.

Citing the "one man/one vote" principle, Dawes called for redistricting in 1990. Because population of the wards is inequitable, votes on the City Council by aldermen of smaller wards count twice as much as those by other aldermen, Dawes said.

Second Ward Alderman Jim Revere was not on hand with news and unable to attend the meeting Tuesday.

Hospitals

Eilerman said he would also question the figures, although SEMC has not yet analyzed them in-depth.

The current program that imposes a tax on hospitals' Medicaid revenues will no longer qualify to earn matching federal money after Oct. 1.

Edgar said he is confident, based on discussions with federal officials, that his plan would result in $735 million more in federal money than the state is getting now.

If nothing is done, that money would be lost to hospitals' Medicaid rates to the state.

Under his plan, all hospital revenues would be taxed, unlike the tax passed last July that applies only to Medicaid revenues.

That plan guaranteed health institutions they would get back at least as much in additional federal money as the amount they were taxed.

Under Edgar's proposal, only about 60 percent of the institutions would get back as much or more than they pay in taxes.

Eilerman said hospitals, pharmacies, nursing homes and doctors are in effect, funding the state's current deficit situation.

"If someone is building a highway for the state, and he doesn't get paid, he withholds services," Eilerman said.

"But we (health care providers) are at any target, because we're not going to withhold services," he said.

He said the tax would penalize the hospitals that operate efficiently.

At this point, it is the philosophy behind it (that is objectionable), more than the dollars," Shepard said.

The 2.9 percent figure translates into a nearly 11 percent increase for those who actually are getting by financially, he said.

Because the increased cost must be passed along to the patients who pay a "full ticket price" for services, the plan would not be a "bad idea," said President Harry Baird of Memorial agreed, dubbing it the "Robin Hood" tax.

Because it radically redistributes funds from those hospitals that are getting by financially to those that are having financial problems."

Harmon called the proposal "a bad idea," and President Harry Baird of Memorial agreed, dubbing it the "Robin Hood" tax.

it's there. They'll never even see it, driving by."

He said he considered the nude dancing format only as a last resort after business at Stages fell into a sharp decline.

He said at least 90 percent of his business comes from Missouri and that he had lost customers in the Landing, Union Station and other entertainment areas.

Scoville said Deja Vu is a quality generator of 31 live adult entertainment clubs nationwide.

He said that, only after he talked with Deja Vu, did he start making serious plans for a nude dancing club.

"I'm not going to be satisfied with anything second-rate. I'm not going to be satisfied with another PT's," Scoville said.

"If it comes to that, you won't have to close it down. I'll close it down myself."

Because Deja Vu wants to open by this fall, Scoville said, he will not time for a proposal by Belcoff to put the issue on the November ballot.

Deja Vu operates the Deja Vu in Springfield, said the proposed facility would be "a palace, with marble floors and oak paneling, and that its patrons would be older, affluent males."

committee and City Attorney Casper Nighoshian, Troesch said that, although the Springfield Deja Vu serves no alcohol, that option would not be considered in Madison County.

"We have to offer what the competition offers and they offer alcohol," he said.

He also said the Madison club would not consider anything less than fully nude dancing because of the competition.

Referring to semi-nude bar in St. Louis County, Troesch said, "If I wanted to open a club, I'd be looking at a location in West (St. Louis) County."

Goldberg said that, also because of competition, a rule requiring the dancers to be five or 10 feet from the audience would also be unacceptable.

After lauding the city's obscenity ordinance for its thoroughness, Goldberg said he had prepared an amendment to the ordinance that would allow live adult entertainment only in establishments holding Class D liquor licenses and located in the zoned entertainment district on Illinois 203.

Because the entertainment district is distinct and separate from the rest of the city, Goldberg said, his amendment would not jeopardize the city's ban on adult entertainment in any other area of the city.

Goldberg, backed by a Press-Record editorial opposing the proposed club as being "old-fashioned" and reflecting "thinking that thought had gone out 10 years ago."

In particular, he said, the editorial had characterized the employees and patrons of the proposed club as "some sort of low-lives and nothing could be farther from the truth."

Deja Vu's dancers, Goldberg said, are "women who are supporting families, putting themselves through school or even going to graduate school."

Deja Vu's patrons, he said, tend to be "older, affluent men, doctors, lawyers, accountants."

"To be blunt, the customers have to be affluent to afford the prices these guys charge for drinks. The low-life types won't come because they can't afford it."

Goldberg said he understood there are a number of people who have moral objections to nude dancing anywhere, but he said, "I don't think they should be allowed to dictate their beliefs to the majority of the community."

Scoville said he had talked to Police Chief Charlie Bridick about Bridick's concerns that potential problems at the club would require the city to hire more police officers.

Scoville said the estimated Deja Vu crowds of 300 to 350 people are much smaller than the 1,000 to 1,500 persons who came to the Stages night club in its prime.

Marv Wiedemer, scoutmaster for 19 years, receives honor

Larry Wiegand Sr., the new scoutmaster of the St. Elizabeth Parish Men's Club-sponsored Boy Scout Troop 13, organized a special effort to recognize the outstanding service of Marv Wiedemer.

In his opening remarks as Master of Ceremony, Wiegand said, "We are honoring Marv Wiedemer, not because he has stepped down to become an assistant scoutmaster, but because he is a very special person."

The special day was planned as a surprise for Marv by the troop and by the other members of the troop committee: Donna Wiegand, Glen Hommert, Mike and Vickie Babic, and Art and Ercy Basual.

The difficult part in planning the celebration was to get Marv out from the scout meeting that night in order to prepare the place without him knowing it. The place was prepared in his presence, but he was unaware that he was the celebrity. Not until he saw the banner with his name on it and noticed that the guests started coming in, did he realize that the celebration was for him.

Several friends, relatives, scout acquaintances, and parents came and honored Marv. Granite City Mayor Von De Cruse presented him a plaque of appreciation for his service and dedication to the youth. Father Francis, the assistant pastor of St. Elizabeth Parish, talked about how he is always available to help in whatever is needed in the church and in the school. Mark Yehling, a parent of two younger scouts in the troop, thanked Marv and recalled how he helped his oldest son while in scouting.

Hellrich thanked Marv for donating his time to help the handicapped and in several occasions where they need a driver. Glen Hommert, an assistant scoutmaster, presented Marv a scrapbook he put together since the beginning of his scouting career with the names of former scouts, member of committees and activities held those years.

Other speakers were: Floyd

Jordan, a scout and a friend of Marv; Bob Moske, Unit commissioner; John Kuehn, District executive; James Bryan, District commissioner; and Dave Capstick, Council executive.

Several letters of recognition were read by Wiegand, which were sent in by the following: Matt Ruder, a former scout; Sam Wolfe, state representative; Jerry Costello, Congressman; Sen. Alan Dixon; and Sen. Paul Simon. A Letter of Commendation from President George Bush and his wife was received later after the ceremony and was read and presented to Marv during the Troop Committee's regular meeting.

A short skit was performed by scouts Jason Collier, Steven Schaus, Mike Lemp, Joseph Basuel, Larry Wiegand, Jr., Chris Bisto, Paul and Matt Yehling, and Jerry Davis. A Boy Scout pen set, a plaque of appreciation, and other gifts from friends were presented to him by the troop. A cake decorated with the Scout emblem and refreshment were served after the ceremony.

Park District plans trip to Bartlesville, Okla. June 10-12

The Granite City Park District will sponsor its third weekend trip of the season on July 10, 11 and 12 to the Bartlesville, Okla., area.

The trip will go on sale at 8 a.m. Tuesday, June 9, at the Wilson Park office.

Residents of the Park District will have priority in making reservations, with each person only allowed to reserve one room. Proof of residency must be presented at the time a reservation is made.

This is a new area of the country for a Park District trip and the weekend will be full of "fun and surprises," a park spokesman said.

The group will stay at the Holiday Inn, where there will be a welcoming reception. The first stop in Bartlesville will be at Shin'enKan, The University of Oklahoma conference center that once was a private home.

The unusual architecture of the building features walls made of Reol and glass and 4-inch deep white carpeting.

Dinner will be at the hotel, followed by live entertainment by the "Let's Pretend Country Singers."

Saturday of the weekend will begin with a breakfast at the hotel. Then the group will go to Johnston Park before a visit to the Keepsake Candle Factory, known as the "Cadillac" of the wax casting industry, where antiques in wax are made.

The next stop of the day will be at "Woolaroc," a wildlife preserve with a world-renowned museum and national Y-Indian Guide center.

The cost of the trip will be $194 for a single room, $160.50 per person for two to a room, $149.25 per person for three to a room and $143.50 for four to a room. The cost includes lunch at the Precious Moments Chapel.

The bus will leave the Wilson Park ice rink that Friday morning and return Sunday evening between 6 and 7.

Collinsville enjoys big school year; GCHS time coming

Kevin Kriemeyer, Matt Chandler, Richard Keme, Laura Nelson, Christi Miller. Why can't these guys and girls leave us alone?

The 1991-92 school year was a good one for Collinsville High School athletically, and a lot of it came at the expense of the Warriors. CHS knocked GCHS out of post-season play in boys and girls soccer as well as boys basketball.

The Kahoks advanced to state in all three sports, winning the boys soccer title and making it to the basketball quarterfinals. The girls soccer team had its fate decided this weekend.

"Thank goodness the Warrior baseball team bit off a small chunk of purple last weekend by pounding the Kahok baseball team into submission at the Belleville West Regional. And the Warriors did hold the upper hand in football and wrestling — easily."

But all in all, a good final year for outgoing CHS athletic director Frank Pitol — who had to put off his retirement by a week to make plans for the girls state soccer finals. *****

The Lady Warriors, who finished 16-3-3, will have to wait another year, but fortunately most of them have the time. The team was 95 percent underclassmen. Their time is coming.

Leading the charge next season will be all-sectional players Tommy Dutko and Ben Taperoff, and goalie Stephanie Kuhl. Collinsville might have benefitted from the urgency of a bunch of seniors trying to make it to state one last time. Granite City will have that edge in 1993.

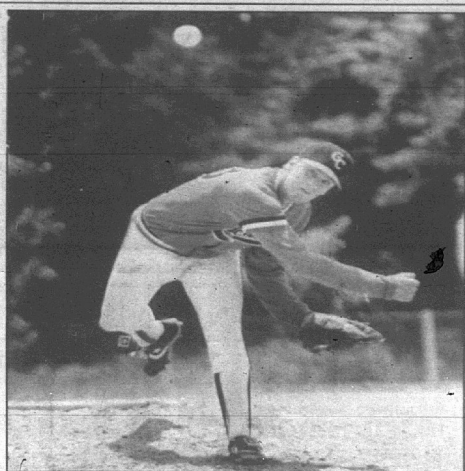

But the seniors to be are only the beginning of the talent. Freshman Holly Farnsworth, for example, had seven goals this year, and she played one of her best games Tuesday in the sectional final. She had the only goal and was a constant threat for 100 minutes.

They just have to figure out a way to beat Collinsville. But if there's any group which can figure something out, it's this one. The team grade point average was nearly 4.5 on a 5.0 scale.

"Their grade point averages are more than their height in some cases," said coach Gene Baker, with only slight exaggeration.

Falling short in a big game can't hold a candle to that. The three losses were the fewest the team has ever lost in one season. Baker's five-year record with the girls is 73-20-3.

(Dave Whaley is the sports editor of the Press-Record-Journal.)

Joe Rieser was 9-1 and made first team on the All-Southwestern Conference squad.

Triplets open Wednesday; Burnett shoots for No. 100

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

Last summer, their names were Legion — literally.

Stephens, Reeves, Harshany, Partney, Marshall, Nordstrom, Lewis, Schardan, Van Buskirk... The names will change a little this summer, but the Tri-City Post 113 Triplets are back. The American Legion season opens Wednesday with a 7:30 p.m. home game against Alton Post 126, and manager Ralph Burnett is out to make the summer of '92 similar to '91.

That will be tough. Last year's team was 20-6 and finished second in the state tournament. When Drake Marshall's fly ball fell about 10 feet short of the fence in Galesburg for the final out of a 4-3 loss to Barrington in the state title game, the Triplets weren't losers — just a narrow second-best. And you would have a hard time even now convincing them of that.

Burnett starts his fifth season Wednesday with a 99-48 record. Expect to see Marshall on the mound Wednesday in search of win No. 100.

"I think we're the team to beat," said Burnett. "We might have to figure out a way to beat

Experience should pay off for GCHS baseball in 1993

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

When the Warrior baseball team last made a serious post-season run in 1987, it had been six years between regional championships. If that six-year cycle continues, 1993 should be the year.

It's way too early to make comparisons between the 1987 Warriors and the 1993 team. But they have one thing in common already. The 1987 team was a senior-dominated squad with most of the team taking lots of varsity experience into the season. Granite City went 29-10 in 1987, winning the Southwestern Conference, beating Edwardsville in the regional and coming within one game of the state tournament.

That team led by Darin Hendrickson, Richie Wilson, the Hogan twins, John Moad, Scott LeVault and Todd Hinterser was ranked No. 1 in the St. Louis area for a brief time at mid-season.

Bob Stegemeier won't have much of a rebuilding job facing him next spring as he begins his 20th and final season. There was much progress made this year as the junior-laden Warriors went 23-9. Granite City advanced to the Belleville West Regional title game Monday before losing 6-0 to the host Maroons, who played Edwardsville on Saturday in the Granite City Sectional semifinals.

"I'm enthused about this group of juniors and sophomores," said Stegemeier. "If someone had told me before the season that we would only get one win out of our senior pitchers, I would have felt lucky to be 500."

Senior Drake Marshall didn't pitch as badly as his 1-6 record would indicate (3.38 ERA). Randy Scott pitched only two innings because of injuries. And Junior Brent Dippel was 1-0, but pitched only 16 innings as he went down on the depth chart. But the Warriors got a huge lift from junior righthanders Joe Rieser and Ben Hicks, who were a combined 15-1. Rieser was 9-1 with a 2.48 ERA and led the team in games (13), innings (48), strikeouts (43) and complete games (2).

"Joe has a smooth motion and it doesn't look like he's throwing it that hard," said Stegemeier. "He was able to surprise some hitters. He was best when he wasn't trying to throw too hard. He wouldn't get many strikeouts, but they weren't hitting the ball hard at all off him."

"Ben was even more of a surprise than Joe. I knew he had some good stuff, but he made the most of it because he's very intelligent. He's among the top academically in his class and that paid off on the mound."

Hicks had a 3.00 ERA with 38 strikeouts in 44 1/3 innings. Sophomores Chad Dooley (3-1, 2.74 ERA) and Jeff Ridenour (2-2, 3.44) will also become bigger pitching factors next year. Both averaged more than one strikeout per inning, and Dooley's strikeout-to-walk ratio was almost 6-1.

Graham cleared after SIUE probe

By Steve Porter
Staff writer

Larry Graham feels vindicated. He's also experiencing a sense of relief.

Graham was the head basketball coach at SIUE at eight seasons before he resigned March 31 amid a cloud of suspicion. The university conducted an in-house investigation and reported that meal money for SIUE players had been mismanaged.

But a recently completed audit cleared Graham of any improprieties. It said there was an oversight error of $7.90 in meal money expenses.

Graham, a statement issued by Graham's attorney, Bill Lucco, and SIUE lawyers, said in part: "There was no wrongdoing by coach Larry Graham nor his staff, and no further investigation is warranted."

Graham, who said he (See GRAHAM, Page 4B) of District 22). But I'm really anticipating another chance at the state tournament."

Burnett wasn't shy last year about touting the ability of his team. The 1991 Triplets backed it all up on the field. He might not be quite as bold this year, at least on the record, but he's pretty satisfied with what he has to work with.

Basically, he'll inherit a high school team that went 23-9. Add to that Ryan Reeves and Chris Hill, who are still young enough to play Legion ball. Reeves didn't play college ball in the spring, but Hill had a good year at Lewis and Clark.

"Randy Martz said Chris was the best pitcher he had," said Burnett. "I lost a little confidence in Chris last year and he might have lost a little confidence in himself. He thrives on work, and it was hard to get him all that work when (Brian) Harshy, (Rich) Schardan and Marshall were throwing complete games all over the place."

Reeves could turn up in a number of spots. He'll pitch, and play in the infield as well as the outfield as the situation warrants. If you're handicapping the favorites to keep up the Post 113 tradition of having District MVPs, this could be the guy.

"Not getting the at-bats in the spring has to affect Ryan some," said Burnett. "But he played a lot in the fall and is playing a little Mon-Clair ball right now, and he doesn't look too far off to me."

Chris Hildreth, who didn't play Legion ball last summer, will be aboard this year. He was the high school team's MVP and will see time at first base, the outfield and as a designated hitter. Marshall will see more time at second base, with Marc Patton playing some at third. Les Nunes will perform capably at shortstop. Bobby Wilson will play some at third and also maybe some at first. John Cozlar is the catcher, with Billy Van

"Jeff Ridenour and Chad Dooley will be in our roster, but they will at least start out with the Junior Legion," said Burnett. "We're going to see a lot of good college pitchers in the tournaments we play, and I don't want those two to be overwhelmed right away."

The ankle injury to Jeff Luffman left the Triplets a little short on position players, but the pitching is deep. The staff is Marshall, Reeves, Hill, Joe Rieser, Ben Hicks, Randy Scott and resigned for personal reasons, is glad the ordeal is over.

"I've said all along and maintained that I didn't do anything wrong," Graham said. "I feel good about the (audit) results and hope it will help me some."

Graham has been searching for a coaching/teaching position since resigning, but so far has found no takers.

"Jobs are tough. There aren't a lot of things open," he said.

Graham said he would be willing to teach and coach at the high school, junior college or college level. Locally, a high school job remains open at Belleville East. Jim Reynolds has resigned as the Lancer head coach.

Graham, who had a record of 147-84 with the Cougars, said he became frustrated with the situation at SIUE.

"And I was frustrated by more than one aspect of what was going on," he said. "It's better for me to be out of there (SIUE). But I'll just go on from here. I really would like to teach again."

Graham, 49, didn't teach at SIUE. Prior to guiding the Cougars, Graham coached at Park College, the Granite City Center of BAC and Madison High School. He guided Madison to Class A state titles in 1977 and 1981.

Meanwhile, SIUE is continuing its search for a new basketball coach. The Cougars have narrowed their list to five finalists: Rick Moss, an assistant coach at the University of Iowa; Ron Smith, an assistant coach at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale; Jack Margenthaler, the former head coach at Western Illinois University in Macomb; Chuck Schramm, an assistant coach at the University of Wisconsin; and a fifth coach who requested anonymity.

The Cougars are expected to hire a new head coach soon. The coach will start July 1 when Graham's contract at SIUE expires.

"Both of them tailed off with the bats as the season went on," said Stegemeier. "I think they would benefit more at the Junior League level this summer if they're not going to play every day in Senior Legion."

Offensively, junior Bill Herman led the way in six categories. He batted .384 with 26 RBIs and 33 hits, including six triples. Dooley had a .620 slugging percentage, with nine of his 16 hits going for extra bases. Junior Jason Maxfield hit in some tough luck, but still batted .333 with 25 runs scored and 14 stolen bases. Junior Marc Patton had a .450 on-base percentage. Senior Chris Hildreth batted .355 with six doubles and a 12-game hitting streak. He was also the team's best at advancing and driving in runners.

"But we never really hit the good pitching," said Stegemeier. "The good breaking ball pitchers were able to handle us. But five of our top six hitters were juniors, so there's time for improvement."

With Rieser, Hicks, Dippel, Brett Barron, Dooley and Ridenour, the pitching should be in good shape. And lefthander Jason Talley was impressive at the sophomore level.

"Barron will surprise some people," said Stegemeier. "Like Hicks, he's very intelligent, and he did well in the few opportunities he had this year."

The infield should be Dooley at first, Patton at second, Les Nunes at shortstop and Bobby Wilson at third. The outfield should be Ridenour, Maxfield and Herman. Catcher Jeff Luffman's ankle injury is serious, and right now he's doubtful for football in the fall.

"I hope he can be ready for baseball," said Stegemeier. "If nothing else, he could be a designated hitter. We have (junior) Harrison and (sophomore) Shawn Shrum who are possibilities behind the plate. And (freshman) Scott Nemeth was very impressive this year for Darren DePew. He might be more advanced offensively at the same stage than Joe Wallace was."

Most Valuable Cougar — Sophomore Keri Weckman of Granite City accepts her Most Valuable Player award from tennis coach Dan Holden at the SIUE awards banquet May 27. Weckman was named the MVP for the 1991-92 team. She finished the season with a 3-6 record while playing No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3 singles. Tim Hogan, a senior baseball player from Granite City, also received an Academic Achievement Award from Nancy Parker, the faculty academic counselor for athletics.

Junior group attends department conference

Venice-Madison Unit 307, American Legion Auxiliary, Junior Group attended the 30th annual Department Junior Conference held at the Chancellor Hotel in Champaign on May 1, 2 and 3.

The girls enjoyed swimming and games on Friday evening after their arrival at the hotel. Saturday morning everyone attended a two-hour Leadership Course conducted by Ruby Simpson, Department leadership chairman. The girls reviewed the history of the Auxiliary briefly, what Junior Groups can do, duties of officers, flag etiquette, how to make motions in business, meetings, and some protocol for guests.

Nine members had appointments for the meeting. Jenna Miller served on the Distinguished Guest Committee; Chelsea Peery as personal page for the president; Megan Miller and Rhonda Ballard served in two capacities — page and flag bearers; Chrissie Ballard worked at the check registration table; Bobbie Chastain at the flag registration desk; Amanda Foley at the Americanism table; Rada Lindsey at the poppy hat display; and Cathy Moreland at the poppy tray favor display. Others attending were Kristen Yobbi, Kaleigh Peery, and Eva Winters.

On Saturday evening, a talent show was given by all groups and some individuals. Unit 307 Juniors gave a skit using the song "Calendar Girl." Each girl represented and dressed depicting one of the months of the year.

Business meeting was held on Saturday afternoon and on Sunday morning. The Unit 307 received a Division Award of Achievement for attaining over 100 percent in Junior membership and for participating in more than four of the Auxiliary programs throughout the year. A personal membership award was won for the most new members and most joining under their grandfathers.

Awards were won by the following: first place in the Americanism Picture Book — Chelsea Peery; second place in the Book of Prayers — Megan Miller; Honorable Mention in History — Beth Baker; third place in Poppy Corsage — Chelsea Peery; first place for Poppy Tray Favor — Kirsten Yobbi.

Each girl gave a stuffed animal toy for the Children's Hospital in Illinois. Following the meeting, the girls toured and enjoyed a visit to Rockmore Gardens at Arcola, Ill. This is the Amish area near Arthur, Ill. Adults accompanying the girls were Dorothy Hinson, Cindy Yobbi, Carla Peery, Connie Ballard, Rose Moreland, and Bill Moreland.

Sixty-five attend Holy Family PSA meeting

Holy Family's Parish School Association opened its meeting March 23 with approximately 65 people in attendance.

Father Bill Finkler, pastor, led everyone in prayer asking for guidance for the school. Chairperson Marge Ash asked everyone to read through February's minutes, which were approved on a motion by Pat Hewlett and seconded by Charles Greer.

In the pastor's report, Father Bill told everyone he appreciated them for making the sacrifice to make it to the meeting. He emphasized that parents are the main influence in children's lives and need to have a say in what happens. It's OK to say "no" and take a stand to be different. A child will reflect his parents' values and views. Finkler reminded parents that they are their child's primary educator.

Principal Sister Angeline began her report by saying that the school gives the child the "extras" following up from what Father Bill said. She reported that the floor is down for the new classrooms and they should be finished by the end of this school year. After open registration, there are now 43 children enrolled in Kindergarten for the 1992-93 school year.

Mark Hewlett placed 3rd in the Regional Spelling Bee and will compete in the Knights of Columbus State Spelling Bee in Springfield in April. Jason Nesbit will be competing in the State Geography Bee.

Dorothy Lamb, treasurer, gave an updated report and announced that the 1992-93 budget was being worked on and will be completed by the end of this school year.

Christina Mink, co-chairperson of the fish fry, said the fish fry were going fine, but volunteers are always welcome.

Cindy Meredith reported that the Newsletter was at the printers. The Newsletter will go out four times a year with its main purpose being to publicize Holy Family School.

Roger Laws informed everyone that the Athletic Committee voted to withdraw from the Alton Catholic Conference and go independent for the next school year. Holy Family will host a basketball clinic and open gym play this summer for those intending to play basketball next year at Holy Family. Dates will be announced later.

The winning door prize number was picked by 8th grader James Rooney, with Jane Gray being the recipient. The Fifty/Fifty drawing was won by Debbie Jordan, $18.50.

Those students participating were: Aaron Meyer, Matt Kelahan, Joe Huff, Bill Lamb, Danny Lusica, Takisha Griggs, Derrick Webb, Buddy Prazma, James Rooney, Jim Conrad, Matt Laws, Mark Hewlett, Amanda Preloer, Lindie Rosenberg, Eryn Ellis, Ange Vasquez, Jason Nesbit, John Haug, Kris Mangiaracino, Tracie Petrillo, and Sarah Halvachs.

How Fishing Schooner lures a bigger pool of customers.

It all began as a hobby. A few dozen angel fish, comfortable enough in tanks tucked away in a corner of a basement.

Today Fishing Schooner Pet Centers is quite a thriving business, selling not only tropical fish but odd birds and rare reptiles as well. It has two stores, 15 employees, and annual sales of over $1 million.

What kind of exotic advertising has made this exotic pet shop so successful? Well, take a look. The answer is a hard-working yellow pages ad, pictured right here.

The actual ad has proved vitally important to Fishing Schooner. At first, Harry Brandt tried to draw his customers from the local neighborhood. But given his somewhat unusual offerings, he clearly needed to attract business from a much broader area.

"No question, the yellow pages is the most effective part of our advertising," Harry Brandt, owner of Fishing Schooner Pet Centers.

Happily, as soon as Fishing Schooner began advertising in the yellow pages, people responded from all over town.

Which is no surprise, because when they're ready to buy, more people turn to the yellow pages for information.

And as Harry Brandt points out, "Our yellow pages ad is in front of our prospective customers every single day of the year."

In fact, research proves that yellow pages ads pull better than any other medium (see the chart below).

So whether your business is fish or foul weather gear—or any other—the yellow pages can help you land the customers you need. And DonTech, publishers of the Ameritech PagesPlus directory, can help you determine the ad you need. Just talk to your DonTech representative.

You simply can't make a better investment than a yellow pages ad, assuming you're hooked on success.

The yellow pages pulls in almost twice as many ready-to-buy prospects as the #2 medium:

Advertising is a proven sales tool that returns your original investment many times over. One of the most effective kinds of advertising you can choose is the yellow pages. The yellow pages is always working, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. It's distributed to every home, every business with a telephone. Who uses it? An impressive 90% of all adults. Keep in mind, too, that people rarely browse through the yellow pages. They turn to it when they're ready to buy; studies show that 87.7% of yellow pages users either bought or were going to buy. In short, a yellow pages ad means business.

Business booms when you do it by the book.

Caseyville Village Fest opens with fishing derby

The second annual Village Fest sponsored by the Caseyville Chamber of Commerce is scheduled for Saturday, June 13, at the Caseyville Park (located one block west of Illinois 157 between Reynolds and Harbor Streets).

The Fest, to be held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., will feature a craft fair, entertainment, a magic show by Ronald McDonald, story telling by the Library Lady sponsored by the Caseyville Public Library, a book fair, a fire equipment display and demonstration by the Caseyville Fire Department, as well as many other activities during the day.

The Caseyville Police Department and Fraternal Order of Police are sponsoring an all-day fishing derby for children 4 to 16. Registration will begin at 7 a.m. at the park lake.

The entry fee for participants is a can of food which will be donated the next weekend to the Caseyville Fire Department picnic.

The derby ends at 3:15 p.m. and prizes will be awarded at 3:30 p.m., ranging from rod and reel fishing poles, personal coolers to tackle boxes. Trophies will be presented in various categories.

Two special tagged fish will be placed in the lake to be caught during the derby. If caught, the lucky person or persons will net a $25 cash prize.

The Police Department also will conduct a flotation device test at 10:30 a.m.

During this time, people can bring their life vests and other lifesaving devices to the lake to be checked for buoyancy.

Local businesses, organizations and churches will be sponsoring booths. Food such as bratwurst, barbecued pork steaks, pizza, chicken McNuggets and fish sandwiches will be available throughout the day.

Entertainment begins at noon. Through the efforts of many community volunteers and employees of the village, two pavilions, a wooded playground area and a walking trail are now complete.

During the building process, eight Cub Scout, Boy Scout and Girl Scout troops of the community helped plant 750 white pine saplings and painted many colorful trash barrels for the park.

An Adopt-A-Tree program during the past three years has been available to provide trees for the park. Individuals, businesses and organizations have purchased trees which were planted in memory of family members and friends.

To date, 14 trees have been placed in the park. During the Fest, the trees will be marked for those who wish to find their tree.

A free "Concert in the Park" will be held following the park dedication featuring the award-winning Althoff High School Jazz Band. Those attending are asked to bring lawn chairs or blankets.

Rhinoceros' closes Arts League season

The Arts League Players of Edwardsville close out their 1991-92 season with a production of Eugene Ionesco's "Rhinoceros" at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, June 11-13, in the Metcalf Theater on the campus of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

"Rhinoceros" is a classic in the absurdist tradition, famous for its large, thick-skinned, herbivorous mammals. A meditation on conformity, on mass hysteria and the individual kind, steeped in the French love of philosophical argument and paradox — the play defies neat description. The director is Eric Barnett.

Tickets for the play are available at the door for $6; students and seniors, $4. Advance tickets at the same price are available at Stagger Inn Again, 104 E. Vandalia, Edwardsville. If purchasing tickets at the door, advance reservations are recommended at 656-1181. The theater is wheelchair accessible.

The Arts League Players' 1991-92 season is made possible in part by grants from the Madison County Arts Council; Southern Illinois Arts, a regional agency; and the Illinois Arts Council, a state agency.

Bugsy, Addams Family in free film series at BAC

Free films will make Wednesday evenings more entertaining at Belleville Area College this summer.

BAC's summer film series, running through June and July, features the recent box office hits Bugsy, Hook and The Addams Family as well as The Commitments, For the Boys and Pastime.

The free series starts June 10 and ends July 22. All films are shown at 7 p.m. in the Belleville campus theater.

Wednesday, June 10 — For The Boys. Bette Midler stars in this bittersweet musical comedy that follows the rocky relationship between a USO song-and-dance team over 30 years.

Wednesday, June 17 — Hook. Fantastic special effects add to director Steven Spielberg's update of Sir James M. Barrie's classic tale, Peter Pan.

Wednesday, June 24 — The Addams Family. Anjelica Huston and Raul Julia star in this gleefully ghoulish family portrait of the creepy, kooky characters created by cartoonist Charles Addams.

Wednesday, July 8 — Bugsy. Warren Beatty and Annette Bening star in the story of the ill-fated romance of Prohibition-era gangster Bugsy Siegel and Hollywood starlet Virginia Hill. Wednesday, July 15 — The Commitments, starring Robert Arkin and Michael Aherne. Director Alan Parker's hit follows a working-class band in Dublin from their shaky beginnings to the dreams of greatness.

Wednesday, July 22 — Pastime, starring William Russ and Scott Plank. A talented rookie and an aging relief pitcher dream of beating the odds in a poignant drama.
